

Free Workshop:How to Cultivate Nature and Year-Round Habitat

What:

Free workshop!

Learn how to Cultivate Nature Year-Round.

This will be a hands-on, informative workshop. We will discuss wildlife life-cycles as related to Virginia native plants and how we can enhance nature's cycles year-round in our own yards. Participants will develop specific steps for every season to conserve biodiversity and cultivate nature.

Speaker:

Meghan M. McGinty, PhD, Botanist and Ecologist

When:

Sunday, March 10th at 1pm until 3pm.

Where:

Old Forestville Schoolhouse

9812 Georgetown Pike

Great Falls, VA 22066

How:

This event is free and open to the public thanks to sponsorship by the Great Falls Garden Club. We strongly encourage the participation of families and children.

Why:

This is a community outreach effort to educate the families of Great Falls on how to cultivate nature in their yards. This is also an event to inform the local community of the 2024 Youth Native Habitat Garden Grant. The grant application window opens on February 15, 2024 with an April 15th, 2024 deadline for submission and can be found online at gfgardenclub.org
